NOTES:

1. In airport name column where the words "Army Air Field" constitute a part of the airfield name, these words are omitted because of space limitations. "Army" or "Navy" indicates that the field is purely an Army or Navy facility. "Site" indicates C.A.A. intermediate field, except where it is prefixed by city name, in which case the field is a municipal airport with lighting maintained by the C.A.A.
2. Each field is codified according to size, numerical rating being based upon longest length of landing and take-off area in accordance with C.A.A. Airport Division standards.
3. In location column, the word "miles" has been eliminated because of space limitations.
4. In remarks column, the word "undesignated" indicates that field is not a designated landing area. Field is not maintained and may even be abandoned.

EFFECT OF ELEVATION ON LANDING AREA UTILITY

INTRODUCTION

The form used in this publication is designed to furnish pilots with essential airport information.

Exact runway lengths are not given, however, the code classification sets forth minimum and maximum dimensions.

Caution must be exercised in using airports with "L" codification as this does not guarantee continuous night lighting facilities.

Only the most hazardous obstructions are included in "Remarks" column due to limited space.

To illustrate the ease with which the Directory data may be decoded, assume an hypothetical airport with the following coded facilities:

$4_h R_2 L_4 S_3$ The graph indicates the longest hard surfaced ("h") runway or landing area equivalent to 4500 - 5500 feet at sea level. The legend indicates the field has: (1) radio range and tower facilities (R_2); (2) beacon, boundary, obstruction and flood lights (L_4); (3) gasoline, oil, storage and repairs (S_3).

Status of airports, other than Army or Navy, as designated landing areas (C.A.R. 60.95 and Defense Regulations) is subject to change. Inasmuch as this Directory lists fields in the continental bounds of the United States, including vital defense areas, it is important that Civil Aeronautics Administration's publication, "Weekly Notice to Airmen", be carefully checked for changes.

Unless specified "Undesignated" in "Remarks" column, civil airports listed are designated, subject to change.

Undesignated fields listed herein may be used only in case of emergency. These fields are not usually maintained and in many cases may be abandoned. Such information will be carried in "Weekly Notice to Airmen", and will be corrected in revised editions of this publication.
